About us

Our sun kissed country is home to a universe of little known, hard to source herbs and spices. Pure local varieties, whose extraordinary quality is at the core of the Mediterranean way of cooking. Daphnis and Chloe started from a dream to open a window to the world, for these remarkable ingredients. From a quiet corner studio in central Athens, we're doing just this: Delivering the natural bounty of Greek herbs, to food lovers everywhere!

Our bouquets of Oregano & Mountain Tea are made right here at Daphnis and Chloe, entirely by hand.

Detail from our Athens studio

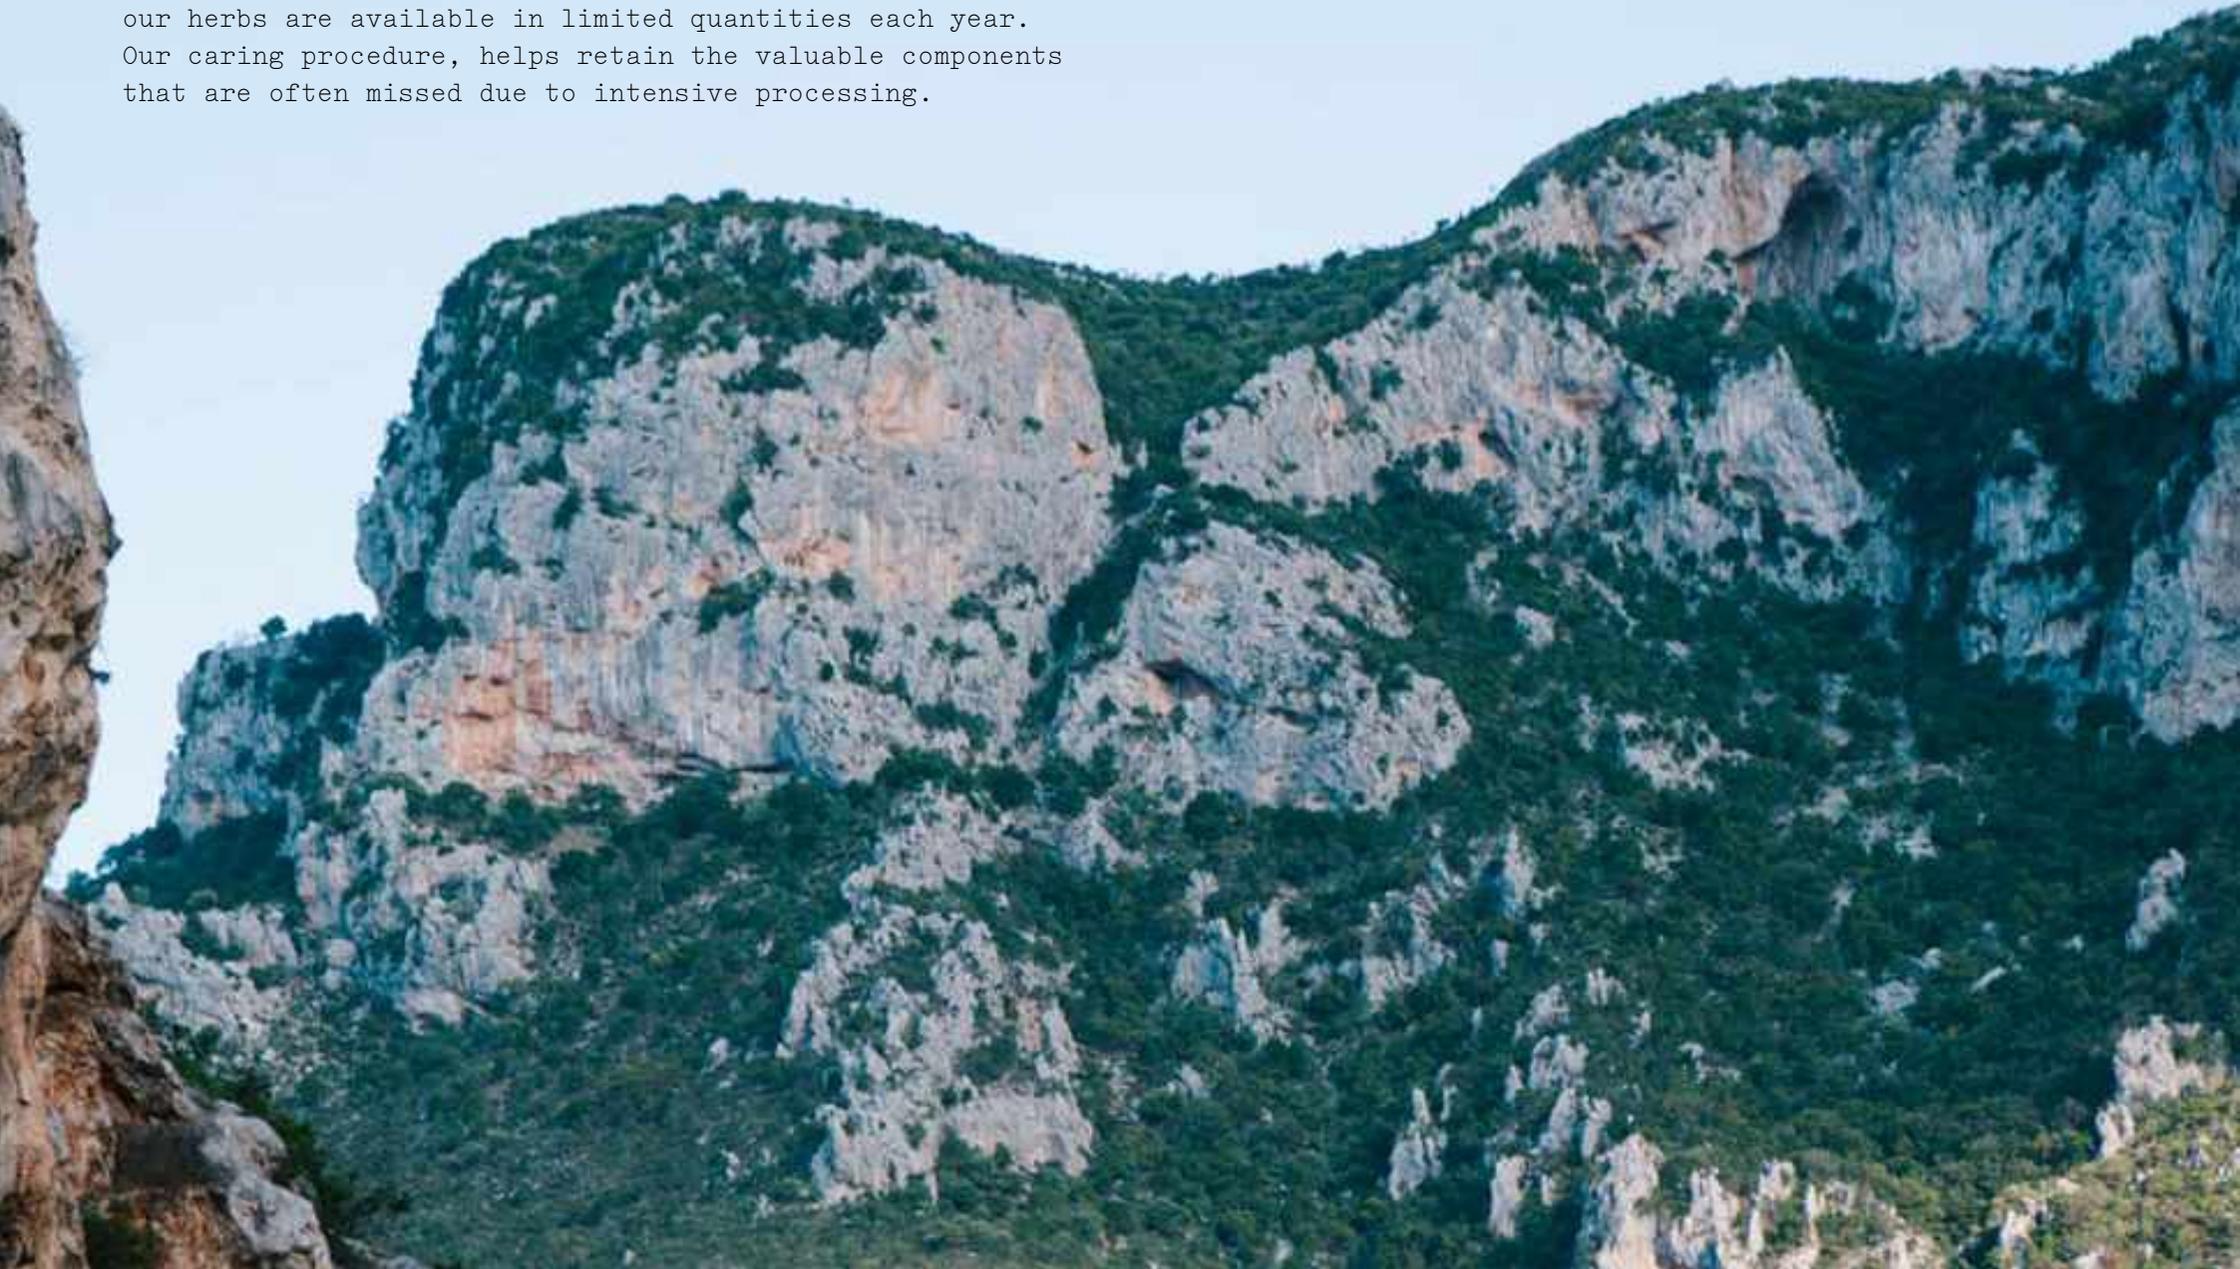

Whole leaf herbs are a pleasure to cook with, whether you're using them entire or crushing them on the minute.

We keep the use of mechanical means to a minimum, to preserve their beauty and aromatic properties all the way to the kitchen.

Our herbs come from beautiful places.
We source local varieties from small,
low impact farms and natural plantations all across Greece.
We work closely with a network of producers that we started building almost a decade ago. Often cultivated on demand, our herbs are available in limited quantities each year.
Our caring procedure, helps retain the valuable components that are often missed due to intensive processing.

Sourcing

Our Aegean Isle Oregano grows in warm, coastal areas around Greece - in spring, you'll see it dwelling spontaneously in between stones and rocks. This little miracle of a spice, was a purely local specialty when we discovered it in 2012. Expanding the sourcing and figuring out processing, took years of work.

We source some of the most beautiful, aromatic, and pure Greek Mountain Tea that one can find, from organic farms in Northern Greece. Our producers cultivate in mountainous areas over 900 mt altitude, in the natural habitat of the plant. This fascinating herb which belongs to the botanical genus Sideritis, is the national herbal tea of Greece.
